

VACANCIES

FISHERIES POLICY OFFICER

The Fisheries Secretariat (FISH) is a non-profit organisation dedicated to work towards more sustainable fisheries at an international level, with a focus on the European Union. Our long-term goal is healthy seas with thriving fish stocks and great diversity. We would like to see a profitable fishing sector working within the limits of the marine ecosystem, preserving the marine resources as well as their habitats.

FISH is looking to recruit a new team member to assist with our ongoing policy work. The successful candidate will take part in our work on international fisheries policy, with a focus on regionalisation and fisheries management in the Baltic Sea. Working tasks will include analysing scientific advice and policy proposals, writing policy briefings, as well as extensive contacts with other stakeholders through the Baltic Sea Advisory Council and other regional fora.

At FISH, we work in an international environment with partners all across Europe, engaging with decision-makers, civil servants, NGOs and the fishing sector. Previous experience of fisheries management and environmental policy work, understanding of the EU political processes and fisheries science, as well as a keen interest for developments in these areas is necessary. For this post, a background in fisheries research would also be useful. The post requires excellent communication skills (written and spoken) in English, and knowledge of other European languages is an advantage.

The post is a permanent full-time position, starting as soon as possible.

We prefer electronic applications, which should be sent to info@fishsec.org. We need your application by 9 December. Interviews will be held in the beginning of week 51.
